Hello, my name is Timothy Gonzalez, and I am from the United States. I have a resolute passion for Philosophy and have read two Epicurean works: The Letter to Herodotus and A Very Short Introduction to Epicureanism. I greatly respect the idea that a well-thought-out, consistent, and healthy pleasure is the goal of life and that religion is not the supreme authority and judge that some people believe it to be.

I have been interested in Philosophy for over a year and have found it extremely helpful in my life. I read from several different schools and have a very eclectic interest in the topic, pulling from various schools of thought.
