

Epicurean versus deceptive (“modern”) Stoic decision making

Post by “Godfrey” of August 13, 2024 at 6:06 PM

The kitchen example falls apart because there is only one "thing:" food. Absence of food leaves nothing. Absence of pain involves two "things:" pain and pleasure. So if there is no pain there is pure pleasure.