

"Self Help Is Like a Vaccine" by Bryan Caplan

Post by "SillyApe" of October 8, 2024 at 5:53 PM

I agree. I don't think society is being rebuilt upon Epicurean pillars nor do I think that the influence of Christian thought will fade into obscurity (even if the supernatural beliefs become weaker). I think, however, that the framework through which people make decisions nowadays is becoming more hedonistic and less idealistic, which may facilitate the spread of Epicureanism (not that I think Epicureanism works for everyone. It works for me, but other people can find their own paths).