I would push back against the idea of "popping in and out of existence"..... Changing from one form to another however is certainly plausible, like ice to water. But the word existence is probably exactly what "cannot" happen.

LOL!!! Popping in and out of existence is a figure of speech I've read in regard to this phenomenon. You have a point. They borrow the energy of the quantum vacuum and then return it. So, popping in and out of existence isn't exactly true.
