

Ancient Greek/Roman Customs, Culture, and Clothing

Post by “Kalosyni” of March 26, 2025 at 7:58 AM

An interesting article: "Ancient Greek and Roman statues often smelled like roses, a new study says":

Quote

Cecilie Brøns, a senior researcher and curator of the Glyptoteket museum's collection of ancient Greek and Roman art in Copenhagen, Denmark, says ancient texts provide evidence that statues were often scented with perfumes, oils and waxes.

<https://www.npr.org/2025/03/25/nx-s1-5332367/ancient-greece-rome-statues-smell-study-research>