

Analysing movies through an Epicurean lens

Post by “Matteng” of May 19, 2025 at 12:45 AM

I noticed Epicurean themes in some Marvel movies.

For example in „Guardians of the Galaxy vol. 3“ the Villian is a perfectionist and his headquarter is called „Aretarium“ with the root word „Arete“ (Virtue) ☐

In „Thor: Love and Thunder“ there is a charicature of the greek gods, they live in a bubble, are threatened by an god killer (who served a god who was exploitative and doesn't care), and they want to ignore that fact and only plan the next orgy.

It's a mix for me where I see Epicureans subjects like the idifference of the gods but could also be the prejudice of the Epicureans gods or general of the greek gods.
