

Confusion: "The feelings are only two"

Post by "Cassius" of May 26, 2025 at 2:40 PM

So we can cite quotation after quotation that establishes that Epicurus did in fact divide the feelings into two, and that he stated that if we are feeling anything then we are feeling one or the other and there is no neutral state.

However, What was his justification for doing so? Is the question that needs elaboration.