

Confusion: "The feelings are only two"

Post by "Rolf" of May 26, 2025 at 3:42 PM

In other words:

If the removal of pain is always pleasurable, why is the removal of pleasure not always painful?
In practical, not theoretical, terms.

If the feelings are only two, shouldn't the removal of pleasure necessarily lead to pain? And not pain as a concept, but pain as a real, tangible feeling.