

Best Lucretius translation?

Post by “Rolf” of June 19, 2025 at 1:38 PM

Quote from Joshua

Loeb edition by Rouse, and revised by Smith, is great for the Latin facing text alone.

Verse translation? Rolfe Humphries.

I should make a tier list one of these days.

Thanks Josh - I'll look into Humphries' translation. I'd like to read something in verse, though I understand it might be less faithful than a more direct translation? He does have a great name, though. 😊