

Edward Abbey - My Favorite Quotes

Post by "SillyApe" of August 31, 2025 at 1:02 PM

I love these, especially the one about all the absurdities that the "professional Philosopher" creates in his head. For a time, these abstractions scared me away from Philosophy. Had I not found Epicurus, I'd still detest it.

I think Goethe once criticized Hegel over this same subject. He said that while the British were taking over the World through their study of nature and Science, the Germans were stuck in endless metaphysical arguments.