I think we'll be hearing more from Chump soon. In the meantime, here's what he's now sent me:

Hello, sorry for the late response I was trying to respond to the post in the welcome thread but I think my activation didn't work. I have clicked the activation email.

For about me, my personal background is that I am a graduate student studying economics. Past reading that I have done is some of the vatican sayings but I am relatively new to deeper study of Epicurus. I have started reading Dewitt's book as well as per the suggestion of this forum. Discovery of this forum happened while googling about epicurean groups.
