I was reading a news article and the person the article was about mentioned that he had stated his success in life came from his following a stoic philosophy. I vaguely remembered seeing a comparison between stoicism and epicureanism once on a website as I was reading something else and I looked both up to refresh my memory as to what they both were about. I kept reading and realized that something in the teachings of Epicurus truly resonated with me. I wanted to learn more, and your site showed up in my search. I like how it is set up and it seems like a very good place to start. I am in the United States.
