

Sunday, December 14 - Zoom Meeting - 12:30 PM - Topic: Lucretius Book Review - Lines 62 -100

Post by “DaveT” of December 12, 2025 at 2:33 PM

I'll have to miss the Zoom this Sunday.

During this week, I was thinking this paragraph by paragraph review of De Rerum Natura has been and promises to be rewarding, while it has illustrated some possible inconsistencies in the surviving original Epicurean writings.

Do you think it might be helpful to us, to compare the reviewed paragraphs of Lucretius' poetry each week against specific Principal Doctrines, Letters, and some of the Vatican Sayings? It might illuminate where Lucretius is being interpretive or appears to be inconsistent with what we believe are actually Epicurus' thoughts and writings.