

My Epicurean plans for 2018

Post by "Cassius" of January 8, 2018 at 6:59 AM

Hello Eigenrau. The most obvious ready-made line of attack is as you say, Meetup. There is an active Meetup group in Sydney Australia which has been around a while and provides something of a model - see here: https://www.epicureanfriends.com/wiki/doku.php/...and_conventions

In addition, it appears there are also a couple of active local Epicurean groups in Greece - one in Athens and one in Thessaloniki. They apparently get together on a regular basis and are well enough organized to have regular seminars.

Between these two, we have a model. The next step is setting up a meetup group locally online, working out a discussion plan, and executing. The working out of a discussion plan is probably the first step.

A new Subforum to discuss this topic is now set up here: Planning And Execution of A Local Meetup Group