

Revisiting Issues of The Use of AI in Epicurean Philosophy

First off, this was such a well written piece in its structure, clarity and logic. I'm jealous of the style you have exhibited in constructing this as well as the recent review of Massimo Pigliucci's essay. This is really good writing. My only critical comment is that I think this is publication material beyond this forum and your Substack, and therefore, you might want to solicit reviews from fellow experts to remove any issues that it might (I don't know of any) distract from the main point.
