Great clips, thanks! There are many different angles from which people get interested in Epicurean philosophy. Very few people in our "philosophy" circles talk about this one, but I personally think it is a very productive one to pursue in the future. How many other ancient / wide-known philosophers/"movements" are identified as taking a position on this intriguing subject? Not many that I can name. And when one day we do find the proof of extraterrestrial life we are looking for, Epicurus ought to get credit for having predicted it.
