

Did Epicurus Create a Finished Product?

Post by "Hiram" of August 4, 2019 at 7:39 PM

this reminds me of On Moral Development, where Epicurus refers to the fully mature character as "finished product", and a character in the process of moral development as a "developing product"

<http://societyofepicurus.com/synopsis-of-ep...al-development/>

Also Epicurus did give instructions on innovation so presumably the founders considered EP as an evolving phenomenon, inevitably (and the assignation of authority to the CANON also seems to indicate this: the five senses, pleasure-pain faculty and anticipations are the ultimate arbiters of reality and of values, not Epicurus).

<http://societyofepicurus.com/epicurus-instr...-on-innovation/>