

On "Sober reasoning"

Post by "Cassius" of August 23, 2019 at 7:55 PM

Hiam it sounds to me like he never took an interest in Epicurean physics(?) Once someone understands the "Nothing comes from nothing" argument I do not see how they can backside into considering the idea of anything supernatural.

And I would not think that hallucinogenic experiences would tempt anyone in that direction unless they never took the physics arguments seriously.

Is this someone who is primarily buying the ethics but not physics or epistemology?