

Question Re Thermodynamics And Deductive Reasoning v. Empiricism

Post by "Cassius" of October 3, 2019 at 8:51 AM

Poster:

Isn't that an argument from ignorance which is usually employed by various religious systems? My question is related to his method - since he employed that argument against both sceptics and the religious of his days. If we presuppose various models without any confirmation in the observable we can also presuppose that any of these presupposed models rest upon the giant turtle - or a god of any variety.