

Dead Reddit / The "Isms" Thread

Post by "Godfrey" of November 26, 2019 at 4:49 PM

Just to add a totally non scholarly two cents worth: when I encounter an ism, I tend to ask "what are the fixed ideas that this contains". When I think of a philosophy, or when I'm operating from inside of an ism, I tend to think more in terms of a living and dynamic set of ideas with which to engage.