

Article on the "Letter to Marcella" by Porphyry

Post by "Mike Anyayahan" of January 31, 2020 at 7:08 PM

Quote from Cassius

What? Is this saying that there is a "Divine" law higher than nature? Is that not the inference or "ascend?"

Lol 😄 That sounds very familiar. As far as I know, it is only the Stoics who frequently use the word "ascend", and this is what they do to assign what to react on an indifferent circumstance. They ascend to a deterministic law as a way to exercise control of their mind and reason while in fact they are only submitting themselves to such laws that they consider divine.