

References to Epicurus' Attitude Toward The "Place of the Sciences And Liberal Arts"

Post by "Godfrey" of July 26, 2020 at 4:31 PM

From A Few Days in Athens:

Quote

"But what is a truth?" said Theon.

"It is pertinently asked. A truth I consider to be an ascertained fact; which truth would be changed into an error, the moment the fact, on which it rested, was disproved."

Wouldn't this be the prolepsis? In a universe of atoms and void there is no Truth, only truths.