

Episode Twenty-Nine - The Earth As Allegorical Mother of All

Post by "Don" of August 2, 2020 at 12:19 PM

Solid episode, gentlemen, although Elayne leaves a hole in the conversation. Look forward to hearing her again.

On the modern use of divine metaphors and analogies, I seem to remember Dr. Michio Kaku getting heat for using phrases like " the mind of God" and "Creation." He was obviously using them in poetic ways and not literally but some in the science community asserted you can't talk like that. They said I seem to remember that they think it misleads people. I think a little poetry is fine personally. (cough... Lucretius... cough)