

Can Emotions be Trusted?

Post by "Cassius" of October 7, 2020 at 7:45 PM

Congratulations, Don! That is every bit as opaque to me as when Elli tried to explain it to me! 😊 That means your explanation is every bit as clear to me as that of a natural born Greek! 😊 I suppose I was raised on too many "It's Greek to me!" jokes! OK it is slowly dawning on me -

😊 I'll take that challenge too.
μπ μπ is pronounced like "b" in modern Greek.
(β b is pronounced like "v" βιβλία biblia "vivilia")
η ē in Ancient Greek is now pronounced like I ("ee")
So, Μπάμπης Μραμπές = "Babis"

This post has previous versions that are saved.