

Social Media - Fediverse

Cassius Amicus account accessible through the Fediverse, which is an open source open standards platform designed to provide an alternative to such closed corporate services as Twitter and Facebook. As a member of the Fediverse, the Cassius Amicus account can be followed by many Mastodon web and mobile applications, especially including Fedilab.

Edit: As of 11/20/22 the Fediverse address is <https://social.vivaldi.net/@cassiusamicus>

Recently I retired the "Epicureanworldview.com" fediverse website, and I have now replaced it with a Fediverse account at <https://social.vivaldi.net/@cassiusamicus>

This is a Mastodon-based instance maintained by people behind the Vivaldi internet web browser, which I also use daily and think to be among the best web browsers.

I will update the links and add this location as another place for backup communication which hopefully will not be needed.

See the full list here: <https://cassiusamicus.github.io/linktree/>

PS - the Epicureanworldview.com web site is not going away, and will eventually be replaced with a new open source web initiative - as soon as I decide which one makes sense.

I used to use Vivaldi for years but stopped because the excess accessibility & customization quickly became bloated and ran as slow as Chrome did, despite still being a Chromium browser. I'll check this out.
