

Happy Birthday Forest!

Post by "Cassius" of January 29, 2022 at 5:34 AM

Happy birthday @Forest ! You are our second birthday to come up since we opened this subforum. In writing this I don't recall if or when you have posted or whether you are still active here. I will check your profile next, and that makes me think of a new suggestion:

Since it is desirable to build a community here, it would be a good idea if we see a birthday come up for someone we don't know to take a second to visit their profile and learn what we can about them.

No doubt over time some people lose interest and we should mark them as inactive, but unless they close their account or say otherwise, we should probably presume it's a nice thing to do to say hello to them in their birthday.

---

Post by "Cassius" of January 29, 2022 at 5:42 AM

I see Forest hasn't visited since 2019. Maybe it would be helpful to develop a system to mark people as inactive, or even close old accounts, but I am not sure there is any real benefit in that. It's easy to tell from a user profile when someone last visited, and occasionally prompting them probably isn't a bad idea.

But maybe some kind of an "Active Poster" badge as a reward for active users would be desirable. Need to think about that.