

New Dark Themes Added to Site - Filed under "Ambience" With Five Color Variations.

Post by "Cassius" of March 9, 2024 at 6:12 PM

For those who prefer dark themes' we've added five new options to the site today. Go down to the "Change Style" option at the very bottom right of the page, or go into your user control panel, and select one of the "Ambience" options, which come in five separate color options.

This theme was just released in the last several days and there are some rough edges, but i expect those to be ironed out soon. The edges I know about are that on the desktop. the option to expand or collapse the sidebar is labelled with the German "Seitenleiste." A little more of a problem is that the User Icons for notifications and conversations don't "stick" to the top left of the window as you scroll down the page. As far as the mobile versions go, I don't see any problems with those at all.

I think those who miss some of the dark themes that we had in the past will find these 'Ambience' options more to their liking.

If you have any questions or issues just let us know in the thread below.