

First Monday Meeting. Hurricane Milton, and Other Topics

Post by “Cassius” of October 7, 2024 at 9:31 PM

Just a note to comment that we had a good "First Monday" meeting tonight. Seven of our regulars had a good chance to speak with two of our most recent participants, Eric and Patrikios. We thank them for joining us and look forward to hearing more from them on the forum.

We very much appreciate that Eric made the effort to stay up until the middle of the northern-European night to join us, and we appreciate that Pgannon has made the effort to make contact with Christos in Athens, Greece.

One side note: After our discussion I realized that we have at least two (and probably more) regular participants who may end up being affected by Hurricane "Milton." I've recently myself seen the damage from hurricane Helene, so I know that others here share my concern and best wishes for Patrikios and @Eikadistes and any others of our readers in the Florida area for safe conduct in the coming storm!

Post by “Eikadistes” of October 7, 2024 at 9:58 PM

We're heeding caution this time around.

I may drop off the grid sometimes Wednesday or Thursday.