

Happy Twentieth of June 2025!

Post by “Kalosyni” of June 20, 2025 at 8:25 AM

Summer Solstice

June 20, 2025

HAPPY TWENTIETH!

"Again, why do we see the rose put forth in spring, corn in the season of heat, vines yielding at the call of autumn, if not because, when the fixed seeds of things have streamed together at the proper time, whatever is born discloses itself, while the due seasons are there and the quickened earth

<https://www.epicureanfriends.com/thread/4505-happy-twentieth-of-june-2025/>

brings its weakly products

Happy Twentieth Everyone! And Happy Summer Solstice!

As I was looking to find something about the seasons in De Rerum Natura, I noticed the differences in various translations (you can take a look at three three translations side-by-side here).

If you want to suggest any other quotes on the seasons from Lucretius that you like, please do!

Post by “Kalosyni” of June 20, 2025 at 1:48 PM

Here is a song to help celebrate today...and since Epicurus was from the island of Samos!

<https://m.youtube.com/watch?v=dykYRssSn8o>

(I do not know what island was filmed for this video).

Here is a translation from Greek into English from the internet:

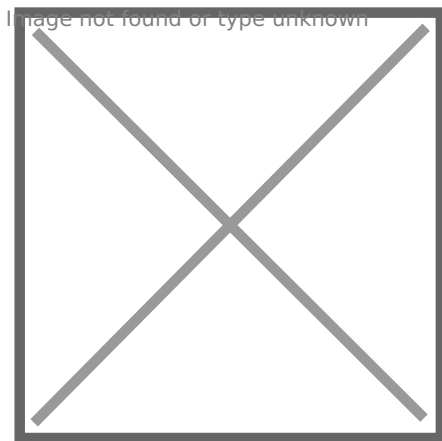

We who grew up with the island the color

And the water of the sea rained our mouths

We feast differently we dance island

A lute and violin until the east comes out (bis)

Our dreams became shells in the Cyclades

Maria Nomikou - Στίχοι Εμείς γλεντάμε αλλιώς...χορεύουμε νησιώτικα

Maria Nomikou Στίχοι Εμείς γλεντάμε αλλιώς...χορεύουμε νησιώτικα: Εμείς που lyricstranslate.com