

"Clinamen Vitae - The swerve toward lived experience, where life is worthy of being lived" - Blog post by Elli

Post by "Cassius" of November 27, 2025 at 8:27 PM

"Clinamen Vitae - The swerve toward lived experience, where life is worthy of being lived"

Blog Article

Clinamen Vitae - The swerve toward lived experience, where life is worthy of being lived.

Between night and day lie twilight and dawn - moments that belong neither to light nor to darkness, yet honor both as complementary shades of our natural, tangible, and shared reality. These moments transcend - or rather, refute- the Aristotelian logic of the excluded middle, which leads to dilemmas and false necessities. Nature does not operate this way; it does not exclude, does not oppose. It discerns, measures, and allows - and it is best described through <https://www.epicureanfriends.com/thread/4827-clinamen-vitae-the-swerve-toward-lived-experience-where-life-is-worthy-of-being/>

Epicurean philosophy when that...

Elli

October 27, 2025 at 10:31 AM