Fourth Sunday discussion is open to all forum members who have completed their registration by replying to their welcome thread.

If you have not previously attended a Sunday Zoom, please message Cassius or Kalosyni to RSVP to this meeting. The Zoom link will be given out the day before the meeting.

We also look forward to seeing longterm members join in on this more active discussion meeting format (co-facilitated by Kalosyni).

Hope to see you there! 😊

Edit note: Reading the article is optional for attendees, as Kalosyni will do a short presentation before opening up the discussion.

And a special invitation to our new members: EdGenX D Campbell jcblackmon Daniel188 Creative Air wbernys (and anyone else I may have missed listing).

We'll be basing our discussion on the article by Emily Austin (linked in the previous post in this thread). Reading the article is optional -- I'll give a brief summary of the article before the discussion, and I'll frame the discussion questions so that everyone will have a chance to participate.

Please RSVP here in this thread (anyone who hasn't previously attended a Sunday Zoom)...so that we can add you to the private Zoom link conversation which goes out the day before the meeting.

(P.S. Depending on how many new people attend, the meeting may run slightly longer than usual to accommodate full participation and any questions).

Unfortunately, I can not attend this Sunday's Zoom. However, I did review the calendar for 2026 and will make some adjustments so I can attend future Zoom meets.
