

Using The Discretion of A Goat In Choosing Friends

Post by “Cassius” of August 29, 2018 at 2:20 PM

Aside from this being funny, I think it illustrates the powerful pull of pleasure, even across species, and reminds me of Lucretius' empathy for the cow that had lost its calf to the wasteful slaughter of the religionists. So the next time you see a scowling religionist or stoic, keep away like a goat would!

<http://www.irishnews.com/magazine/scien...-happy-1418729/>